CR's 100 Best Corporate Citizens 2013

Key: (T) indicates "tie-gap equivalents" on data points where several companies are tied for the same rank in a category; e.g., "268 (T-2)" means 267 firms tie for 1st in the category and 268 is equivalent to 2nd in the category. If there are no (T) indicators, there is no tie.

- Indicates "red card" caution; removed from list.
- Indicates "yellow card" caution; remains on list.

Abbott Laboratories

Abbott Labs pleaded guilty in a case brought by the Justice Department for "misbranding" their anti-seizure medication, Depakote®. The case stemmed from improper marketing of Depakote® for a purpose other than approved indications. Abbott Labs agreed to compliance guidelines and to a settlement of $1.6B. As Abbott Labs has separated its pharmaceutical business into the new spin out company, Abbvie, the legacy Abbott organization has received a yellow card and Abbvie, has received a red card.

Carnival Corp.

While there have been no specific allegations or admission of wrongdoing, Carnival’s string of incidents over the past two years at the very least raise questions over maintenance policies and at worst indicate deeper issues. The magnitude and regularity of these issues earns Carnival a yellow card.

JPMorgan Chase & Co.

JPMorgan Chase Bank receives a yellow card for its now discontinued practice of posting of transactions related to debit cards and consumer deposit accounts causing overdraft fees; the company settled class actions suits for $110M.
